Meet the Judges

Eric Low

Management Consultant at PwC
Real Estate Investor & Developer

Eric Low is a mergers and acquisitions and transformation advisor with over 20 years of experience in financial services and 10 years focused on advising corporate and private equity clients on growth, integration, and value creation. He currently works at PwC, where he specializes in evaluating operating models, identifying synergies, and supporting companies from diligence through post-close execution. Throughout his career, Eric has helped organizations assess new markets, scale operations, and make disciplined investment decisions—skills that translate directly to evaluating early-stage and small business opportunities.

In addition to his advisory work, Eric is an active real estate investor and developer with experience analyzing cash flow, market positioning, and risk across a range of property types. His background combines strategic thinking with practical financial modeling and an operator's mindset, allowing him to assess both the vision and execution behind a business idea.

Eric brings a balanced perspective to judging: he looks for clear customer value, realistic economics, strong founders, and the ability to scale sustainably. He is particularly interested in businesses that demonstrate thoughtful problem-solving, disciplined growth plans, and a compelling path to profitability. He is excited to support and encourage entrepreneurs building the next generation of small businesses.
